- “Extremely varied delegates and a good forum to meet new and existing contacts. Real focus on the business of film.”
- “For the kind of films I'm working with, it's the best place to meet everyone.”
- “It's a good opportunity to meet with buyers and co-producers, particularly from Europe, and is well situated in time between the AFM and Cannes.”
- “EFM is the best managed, least crowded and easiest film market .”
- “Excellent industry representation. Good location.”
- “EFM really is the best gathering for the independent feature filmmakers.”
- “It's an excellent mix of market and festival. More for film than TV; Must have right connections.”

Q22a. Would you recommend the European Film Market to other companies in the Canadian audio-visual industry? N=36

Other Comments

- “A valuable experience with excellent support from Telefilm staff .”
- “Overall great experience.”
- “Once again, the Telefilm Festivals and Markets team did an exemplary job of coordinating a Canadian presence in what is probably the most important international market for independents.”
- “The advisor beforehand was useful. An increase in her services further in advance would be helpful.”
- “Je trouve que le EFM se developpe a un bon rythme.”
- “More support for Canadian titles.”
- The facilitators could have been more visible and useful - the meet and greet at the Canadian embassy was pretty useless - too much noise and confusion to really engage in a conversation or initiate real dialogue.”

Q26. Finally, please provide any other comments you have on the 2008 European Film Market or suggestions for improving the support provided by Telefilm and its partners.

Summary of Findings

Summary of findings

- It appears that the participants at the 2008 EFM did enjoy a successful market:
 - More than eight in ten (86%) of participating companies either completed sales, or began discussions that are likely to lead to sales while at the event.
 - Forty-six percent either completed pre-sales, or began discussions that are likely to lead to pre-sales.
 - Over half of respondents (53%) either signed or began negotiating co-production or co-venture deals.
 - 42% participated in the “Producers without Borders” initiative, and they saw it mainly as a medium for identifying potential partners.
 - Nearly six-in-ten (58%) indicated that they had their title screened as a part of the “Perspectives Canada” initiative, and of those 57% thought it made a difference in completing sales.

Summary of findings

- Compared to the previous year, respondents' satisfaction with the market was notably higher, at 8.0 out of 10 (vs. 6.8 in 2007).
- The same was true for the rating of value for money, on which the 2008 EFM scored 7.6 (vs. 6.4 a year ago).
- Participants were most satisfied with the 2008 EFM as a source of professional development (7.8 out of 10) and in terms of reconnecting with existing business contacts (7.8 out of 10).
- The participating companies were least satisfied with acquiring titles for distribution (5.6 out of 10).

Summary of findings

- More than three-quarters (78%) of respondents used the services provided by the Canada Pavilion at the 2008 EFM.
- They rated their satisfaction with the overall utility of the Canada Pavilion quite high, as 7.6 out of ten; higher than last year (6.8 out of 10).
- Participants were most satisfied and dissatisfied with the following aspects of the Canada Pavilion (NB; the same elements as in the previous year):
 - The helpfulness of booth staff (8.6)
 - The design and appearance of the stand (7.5)
 - The location of the stand (7.5)
- They were less satisfied with the stand in terms of being able to conduct meetings there. Specifically:
 - The usefulness of Pavilion in holding meetings (6.2)
 - Size and availability of meeting spaces (6.2 each)

Summary of findings

- Many participants indicated that they found the Canada Pavilion to be lacking appropriate space, as well as quiet areas to conduct meetings.
- Some participants also commented on improving the wireless networking capabilities at the Canada Pavilion.
- There was also a suggestion that a more interactive forum be established to encourage more networking among participants.
