

NECESSARY PROVISIONS IN A COPRODUCTION
AGREEMENT UNDER THE TREATY WITH THE UNITED MEXICAN STATES

The title of the co-production.
The name of the author of the script, or that of the adaptor if it is drawn from a literary source.
The name of the director (a substitution clause is permitted to provide for his replacement if necessary).
The budget.
The financing plan.
A clause establishing the sharing of receipts, markets, media or a combination of these.
A clause detailing the respective shares of the co-producers in any over or under expenditure, which shares shall in principle be proportional to their respective contributions, although the minority co-producer's share in any overexpenditure may be limited to a lower percentage or to a fixed amount providing that the minimum proportion permitted under Article VI of the Agreement is respected.
A clause recognizing that admission to benefits under this Agreement does not constitute a commitment that governmental authorities in either country will grant a licence to permit public exhibition of the co-production.
A clause prescribing the measures to be taken where: <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>a. after full consideration of the case, the competent authorities in either country refuse to grant the benefits applied for;</li><li>b. the competent authorities prohibit the exhibition of the co-production in either country or its export to a third country;</li><li>c. either party fails to fulfil its commitments.</li></ol>
The period when shooting is to begin.
A clause stipulating that the majority co-producer shall take out an insurance policy covering at least "all production risks" and "all original material production risks".
A clause providing for the sharing of the ownership of copyright on a basis which is proportionate to the respective contributions of the co-producers.
